Prentice a Traitor to the South The leading purpose of the Louisville Journal now, and at all times heretofore, has been, by the characteristics of political parties, to induce the people of the South to give aid and comfort to Northern Aboliticuists. There is no statement. however mendacious, tending to this object, to which he does not habitually resort. This has been, for years, the principal feature of the paper. Every honest and unprejudiced reader of his paper, during the heated sectional agitation now going on, cannot but admit the justice of this charge. We have, time and again, quoted from the paper extracts to show his sympathy with Northern anti-slavery agitators, and exposed the base means adopted to weaken the force of the fact, now so obvious, that the Democratic party can alone save the country from the ruinous and unconstitutional machinations of Abolitionism. This party, as it now stands before the country, and as will be made manifest by its action in the National Convention, is a unit on the great questions in which the South is so deeply interested and which indeed involve, in all human proba bility, the safety of the Union.

While this fact is so manifest, the Journal labors from day to day, to conceal it from its readers : and while the Know-Nothings in the free States have been almost bodily absorbed by the antislavery party, leaving a scarcely visible remnant of nationality in their powerless and nearly defunct organisation, it asserts, with unblushing off contery, that the only hope of the country rests

In yesterday's issue, the editor cites Sumner as evidence of the character of men whom Northern Democrats choose to represent them." Bigler, Toncey, and others from free States, represent Northern Democracy in the Senate-and th further fact, that every recognized Demourat in the House of Representatives is a sound national man; while nearly every individual member of either body elected by the fusion formed of Know-Nothings and Abolitionists, is carrying on a deadly war on the constitutional rights and interests of party, the national Democracy are, in all places, battling heroically for the right; and, in a num ber of the free States, have still sufficient numerical force to control the elections.

It is true that Sumner, when elected, was in the Legislature, who were, perhaps, as unsound country. as himself, and most probabi, in opposition to another Abelitionist. We incline to the former opinion for it was but a day or two ago, he was after General Pilcher with the sharpest kind of wit, and remotely hinting that Haggin, and other Democrats who have "gone over," were too "pure" to receive a nomination at the hands of the recent Judicial Know-Nothing Convention in this district. If the editor is trying to become witty at the expense of his own party, he is succeeding remarkably well for one of his contracted genius, and we advise him to persevere. But if he means to be taken in the literal sonse conveyed by his in the Dark—Benson as Pettibone. Thosa who paragraph, he has either forgotten the oaths contained in his ritual, or he is becoming obstrep erous, and ought to be reported by the "task master" of the "ten" to which he may belong, for "consideration." The doctrine that "independent Americans can vote for the candidate of their own choice," is a very dangerous one for the Know-Nothing party, and is in contravention to only meeting held was in the imagination of the its rules and regulations. The "Americans" are editor of the Journal, which was very much exsworn to vote, not for the candidate of their own cited by recent alarming news of the encroachshoice, but for the candidate of their masters.

The Journal copies from the St. Louis Intelligencer a statement, that nearly all the leading men of the Democratic Convention in that State tion of a candidate, at Cincinnati, to suit the views were reasgade Know-Nothings, and then proceeds to heap upon these patriotic spirits, who are leaving the foul party all over the country, its usual amount of vulgar slang and low abuse—calling the four party all over the country its usual amount of vulgar slang and low abuse—calling advise him to sleep with "closed doors."

We advise him to sleep with "closed doors." amount of vulgar slang and low abuse—calling advise him to sleep with "closed doors." them "spoils-loving office-seekers and Freesoil shrickers," and such like names. It is a part of the policy of the Know-Nothing party to abuse and vilify every man who has the honesty and man lines to leave the rattlemake dons. It hopes, by much a course, to destroy the influence of those who may refuse to set longer with them, and to deter others from coming boldly out and denouncing the order. It will not work, however. The masses of the people are honest, and after a time are as most sure to arrive at correct conclusions. They will leave Know-Sokhingium, in spite of all the abuse and vilification which a hireling pressure may be ap upon them. But the charge copied in the Journal is not true. The Dismissal of Mr. Crampton. The following is Mr. Marcy's dispatch in full: SECRETARY MARCY TO MB. DALLAS.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, Tuesday, May 27, 1856. Sin: The President has carefully considered the note of the 30th ult., addressed to you by the Earl of Clarendon, Her Majesty's principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, relative to the questions which have arisen between this Govern Chingman, Dixon, and others been here to have witnessed the enemy (and their defiant position, so all-important) to be met by the Union men—in fact the combined strength of all national men of the Majesty's Government. He has been much the old parties—they would have felt proud of the conciliatory spirit of that note, and by the desire manifested by the Earl of Clartheir present position. Many Old-Line Whigs endon to adjust the existing difficulties, and prepresent from Kentucky, Tennesseo, &c., did not hesitate to say, at once, that they were for Demohesitate to say, at once, that they were for Demointerest which the Government and people of both countries have in upholding and cherishing such and others, been here, who have fawned to the so called "American principles" as the panacea for the slavery agitation, they would have realized Lovejoy's declaration here, that this (slavery either to infringe the law or disregard the policy, President. The ground of complaint, so far as ator Wilson some time since.

Governor Reeder was here, and gave one of his long speeches—the whole tener of which went to show that he was not the man that should have opinion of the conducter some of Her Majesty's officers who were, as this Government believed, officers who were, as this Government believed, been sent to Kansas. He was not adequate to the office, and it was a misfortune to the nation that offered in their defense, still believes, implicated he ever was sent there. Not that the principles in proceedings which were so clearly an infringement of the Kansas and Nebraska Bill are not right, but In respect to such of these officers and agents as have no connection with this Government it has nothing to ask from that of Her Majesty—but the potentiary to this Government, and the Consuls at New York, Philadelphia, and Cincinnati. The m their official position if it had entertained the cruiting contrary to the laws and sovereign rights of the United States. I need scercely say that in making this request no interruption of the diplo-matio relations between this Government and that to keep them upon a most friendly footing.

Mr. Crampton's withdrawai was asked for expressly upon the ground that "his connection with the affair—ruising recruits in this country for the British service—has rendered him an unaccept-able representative of her Britannio Majesty near this Government." For the same reason the with-drawal of the three British Consuls was also requested. These officers were, as this Government confidently believes, deeply implicated in proceed-ings coutrary to the law and sovereign rights of the United States, and contrary, as it now appears, to the intentions and reiterated instructions of their own Government. It was their peronal acts, not the less objectionable for having been done contrary to the directions of her Majesty's Minister, which rendered them in their offi cial character and position unacceptable to this Government, and induced the President for that cause to solicit their recall, believing that by this course he was contributing to the common interest and harmony of the two Governments. He has not, after most mature deliberation, been able to hange his view of their conduct, and cannot there fore change his purpose in relation to them, though their couduct related to, and in fact orig-nated a difficulty which disturbed the cordial harmony and good understanding between the two countries. It constituted a decided objection to them of a personal character, which loses none difficulty. The only embarrassment which at tends the case, is the difference of opinion be tween the two Governments as to the compli-of these officers in illegal proceedings within United States. In reviewing this subject, the President was disposed to avail himself of any reasonable doubts which could be raised in his ernment; but, after careful consideration of the case, he has been unable to change the conclu to which he had previously arrived. The differ

The charges against them are much broader, and embrace the offense of violating the laws and sovereign rights of the United States, by setting in operation within our territory, and conducting an extensive system of recruiting, which was not and could not be carried into effect without infringing tory declaration to the simple charge of having violated the provisions of our neutrality act, it does not merit the consideration which Lord Clarsudon has ascribed to it. By adopting Lord Clarondon's construction of our neutrality law, con tained in his note of the 16th of November, which renders it almost nugatory, and contrary to that of this Government, and of its judicial tribunals, barrassment in meeting the charges with a general denial—but giving to the declaration of Mr. Crampton and the Consuls all the consideration which can be fairly claimed for it under the cir-Lord Clarendon's note to you of the 30th of and thus it is that he who directed, had power to

Lord Clarendon's note to you of the 30th of and thus it is that he who directed, had power to stop the proceedings—and thus frem early March until August he is found busily occupied in superintending the enlistment partly in the United States. By examination of my dispatch of the 28th of December, it will be perceived that these witnesses were strongly confirmed, and that there to state and partly in Cauada and Nova Scotia, and in issuing instructions to the agents engaged in the facts. By examination of my dispatch of the 28th of December, it will be perceived that these witnesses were strongly confirmed, and that there to now to say that he did not intend to commit on he was made overeign rights of the United States. He was ment of the laws and sovereign rights of the United States. I trust that it will not be questioned that content of the laws of the laws of the laws of the laws. It was under superior authority from him that acts of continuous violation of law were perpetrated by the inferior agents. Some of within its jurisdiction are an infringement of these laws. This is a matter which concerns its internal stration, and it cannot allow the agents of any foreign power to controvert that construction and justify their conduct by a different interpre-tation of our laws, which virtually readers them Consuls inoulpated do the same. He assumes that the charge against them is sustained mainly by the evidence of two persons, Strobel and Her he concelves to be unworthy of gredit, and he appeals to the American Government to accept as conclusive, declarations of the Minister and Con-

The employment of Strobel by Mr. Crampton, their long association in the joint work of recruiting in the United States for the Foreign Legion, the distinction of her Msjesty's commission of Captain in the Corpe conferred on Strobel, would seem at least to deprive Mr. Crampton of the right to deny his credibility as a witness. But there is a large and more comprehensive class of considerations applicable to this particular question. For a period of nearly five months, that is, from about the middle of March, 1365, to the 5th of August, 1855, the peace and order of this country were disturbed, especially the cities of Eoston, New York, Philadelphis, and Gincinnalt, by the unleaved and set at naught all the efforts of the tossue and they obtinately resisted and set at naught all the efforts of the local authorities of the United States upon the President and they continued the United States to put a stop to their proceedings; nor did they desire for the Court.

They were supplied with ample funde by British nagents to Halling, and they obtinately resisted and set at naught all the efforts of the local authorities of the United States to put a stop to their proceedings; nor did they desire that unlikely received orders to that effect from the British Foreign Legion.

They were supplied with ample funde by British foreign Legion of the United States to put a stop to their proceedings; nor did they desire that unlawful acts of the United States to put a stop to their proceedings; nor did they desire the British Foreign Legion.

They were supplied with ample funde by British foreign Legion ally or by correspondence, with Mr. Crampton. The employment of Strobel by Mr. Cramptou, their loug association in the joint work of recruiting in the United States for the Foreign Leglon, the discounter of the Maintain of Cantain in month of August. The recruits thus unlawfully raised in the United States during all that time were conveyed by British agents to Halifax, and there enrolled in the foreign legion. All these acts, as well as their illegality, were notorious. Long before the trial of Hertz in September, and of Wagner in Ottober, they must have been brought to the particular notice of Mr. Crampton, the British Consuls and other agents by the preliminary judicial inquiries which took place both at New York and Philadelphia. In consequence of steps to that effect, taken by me on the 22d or March, the proper instructions were issued on the 23, and prosecutions commenced in Philadelphia on the 30th of March, and in New York on the 5th of April.

As an example of the character of these proceedings, their untoriety and their comprehensive logal effect, what occurred in May deserves particular untice. At New York, on the 15th of May, a number of persons, namely: Godfried Wachier, Wil helm Schumacker, Julius Parkus, Oscar Cremey, and Audrew Lutz, were examined before Commis-sioner Betts, on a charge of recrultment for the service of Great Britain. Eminent counsel were employed by the accused, who argued that uo of-fense had been committed, because it did not ap-pear that any valid contract of culistment had been consummated; but this ground of defense was overruled by the Commissioner, who, though he discharged Wachier for defective evidence, committed Luts, Sohumacker, Cremey, and Parkus. At Philadelphia, on the 25th of May, three persons, Herts, Perkins, and Bucknail, having been arrested on the charge of illegal recruiting in the service of Great Britain, applied to the Circuit in tho Court of the United States by habeas corpus to be discharged from oustedy. The presiding judge, the Hon. John K. Kane, on the examination of the evidence taken in the case before a Commissioner, found the proofs were sufficient to bring the acts of Hertz and Perkins within the coudiingly, the latter was discharged, but the two former were committed for trial. Thus, so early as May, it was judicially shown that what was doing in this respect was unlawful. Mr. Crampton was acwith these proceedings, and was thus ufficiently admonished that the acts of recruit-ment carried on under his authority, did, in fact whatever may have been his intention, constitute a violation of the municipal law of the United States. This had been decided by the Conrts of the United States, and was publicly and extensively made known. It is not controverted, indeed it is admitted, that he had the recruiting business in his charge and under his control in the control of the con in his charge and under his control; yet he per-mitted it to be continued, although judiclously determined to be unlawful, through the months of May, June, July, and August.

As an example of the character of these proceed-

Now this long series of acts, unlawful and other-wise prejudicial to the good name and tranquillity of this country, were performed by persons who were liberally paid by the British officers, and many of whom actually entered the military service of Great Britain. That was incontestably proved on the trial of Herts and Wagner, by evidence which sannexed to this dispatch in the form of documents responsive to those accompanying the letter of the Earl of Clarendon. Who is to be held accountable for these unlawful acts? Were they all performed by volunteer and irresponsible per-sons, as argued in the Earl of Clareudon's dispatch shed that they were done, and done in the

and at the expense of the Eritish Government. Who, then, is responsible for these acts? Were there no direct proof, though there is much of that character, the inference would be irresistable that, not being authorized by the British Government itself, they were the unauthorized acts of the British agents in the United States. Such egents having acted in willful disregard of their Government in thus infringing our laws, may have failed to inform their Government that what hey thad undertaken to do could not be done without infringing those laws; or by misman agement, discretion, or over zeal, they may have participated in such infringement, though well knowing it was contrary to the wishes and oxpress orders of their Government. However this may be, it is certain that agents existed, because heir sots appear. Who were those agents? Of this we are not left in doubt. In the documents on the subject, recently laid before Parliament, it is distinctly stated that the enlistments in the United States did not stop until Mr. Crampton gave orders for their cessation on the 5th of An gust. He had the power to step the acts of enlist-mout. He knew the proceedings were, from the commencement, exceedingly offensive to this Government, and that it was devoting its active energies to arrest them. He was bound to know—he could not but know-what was notorious to all the world, that through the months of April, May, June, and July, the recruiting agents in various parts of the United States, and conspicuously in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and Cincinnati were keeping up a most unseemly contest with the law officers of the United States, and that, at least, law officers of the United States, and that, at least, as early as May, the illegality of the proceedings had been pronounced by the Federal Courts in New York and Philadelphia, and yet, notwithstanding this, he permitted the unlawful acts in question to go on without check until the month of August. For thus giving countenance to these illegal proceedings, he is distinctly responsible. But his accountability extends yet further, for the same documents show that the official suggestion to the British Government of the untoward scheme to the British Government of the untoward scheme of obtaining recruits in the United States came from the correspondence of Mr. Crampton, and of the Consuls at New York, Philadelphia, and Cin-nati, and that to Mr. Crampton was the superin-teudence and execution of the scheme committed, is belongs exclusively to this Government and its judicial tribunals to give a construction to its municipal laws, and to determine what acts done within its jurisdiction are an infringement of these laws. His moral and legal responsibility are thus demonstrated. With full tendence of Mr. Cramptou. His moral and legal responsibility are thus demonstrated. With full information of the stringency of the laws of the United States against foreign recruiting, with a distinct perception of its being all but impossible to raise recruits here without infringing the laws of the toraise recruits here without infringing the laws of the scheme until August, when its obstinate prosecution brought on a most unpleasant controversy between the United States and Great Britain; and it is not the least of the causes of commission in this business, or in failing to advise his Government of the impracticability of the undertaking in which he was embarked, and the series of illegal acts which it involved, and in neglecting to observe the general orders of his Government and stop recruiting here the moment its illegality was pronounced by the proper legal authorities of the United States, he was recklessly endangering the harmony and peace of two great nations which, by the character of their commercial relations, and by other considerations, have the strongest pessible inducements to cultivate recipied anity.

They were egents selected and trusted by Mr.
Crampton himself, and to them he committed most important concerns. Such an indersement should countervail the impeachment of their veracity, founded on loose, hearsay reports. Nor does it seem to be a thing of much moment, in relation to the present question, that Strobel, in consequence of imputed misconduct, was dismissed from employment by the Licutenant Gevernor of Novia Bootia, and afterward endeavored to obtain money from Mr. Crampton. The fast remains that he held a commission in the British Foreign Legion, and that, as it is clearly proved and not denied, he maintained, as recruiting officer, and for present year.

The President, as has already been stated by me cannot admit the force of the objection now urged of the alleged want of respectability on the part of some of the witnesses by whom these lasts were proved, and as to whom a prominent ward the belligerent parties, and as mere letters written for the occasion, which, in deed, they could not have done lawfully, had ther been no such prohibition; but if conscious of their own inuccence, and that of the parties on trial, and that their own acts would bear examination, it was alike their right and their duty to appear and say so on oath, and to contradict by their tes-timony whatever was alleged against British offi cers or agents, if known to them to be untrue. Nor isit any just cause of complaint, that evidence was received upon these trials impugning the acts identified the satisfactory settlement of the of Mr. Crampton. It was in due course of proceedings required to be shown, as against the parties on trial, that the recruitments in which they were engaged were for the service of a forparties on that, that the recruitments in which they were engaged were for the service of a for-eign Government. Mr. Crampton was himself priveliged from trial for a violation of our munipriveliged from trial for a violation of our muni-oipal law, but the persons whom he employed were not for that cause to go unpunished—nor was the administration of penal justice to be indefinitely suspended on account of his position and the disuspended on account of his position and the di-plomatic immunities which that conferred; on the plomatic immunities which that conferred; on the contrary, it was peculiarly proper that the facts by which he was implicated, but for which he could not be tried, should be verified in due form of law. for the information of his own Governsioner, found the proofs were sufficient to bring of law, for the information of his own Government as well as that of the United States. The tions of the law, but not so to Bucknail—accord-Earl of Clarendon remarked in his letter of 30th of April, that:

"The intentions of the British Government and the arrangements made to carry those intentions into execution, were not concealed from the Government of the United States; those intentions and arrangements were frankly stated by Mr. Crampton to Mr. Marcy in conversation on the 22d of March, 1855, and the only observati which Mr. Marcy made in reply were, that the neutrality laws of the United States would rigidly be enforced, but that any number of persons who desired it might leave the United States and get enlisted in any foreign service."

It is incumbent on me to say that in this respect the Eari of Clarendon labors under serious misappreheusion which, while it serves in part to explain how it happened that the enlistments went on for so many months in a manner contragate to the intentions and expressed the service of the se ry to the intentions and express orders of the Bri ish dovernment, also serves to increase the weight of Mr. Crampton's responsibility in this respect. I repeat now, with entire consciousness of its accuracy, what I stated in my letter of 25th December last, that at that interview on the 22d of has not been, and cannot be, impeached; and although the evidence adduced on these trials does not used corroboration, still it may not be amiss to add that much other evidence to the same effect is no possession of this Government, some of which with it, and was in no way responsible for what was done in the form of down in the form of down and the same and the trial down in the form of down in the only one I ever had with Mr. Crampton, as he admits, in which the recruitment business was alluded to, he, Mr. Crampton, had satisfied me that his Government had no connection with it, and was in no way responsible for what was doing in the United States to raise recru for the British army. But I am quite cortain that on no occasion has he intimated to me that the British Government or any of its officers were or had been in any way concerned in seuding agents into the United States to recruit therein, or to use the conclusive reason that they received pay from British officers, and of course were employed by some responsible agents of the British fovernment.

The Earl of Clarendon, in behalf of Her Majesty's Government, disclaims all intention to violet to the mischief at the Government, disclaims all intention to violate the laws, compromise the ueutrality, or disrespect the system that sovereignty of the United States by the enlistment of troops within their territory. The President United States by pritish agents and under his sunreservedly accepts, and is fully satisfied with this disclaimer. Of course the unlawful acts in uromptly notified in the most positive terms that question were not authorized by the British Government, but the fact is nevertheless well estabtry, a violation of its national son pecially warned against the violation of our neutrality laws.

But he blames me now for not then stating to his own; but no such difference of opiniou was then developed. Mr. Crampton on that occasion manifested a coincidence in opinion as to the provisions of that law which I then held and have since fully disclosed. He called on me to show the letter which he had written on that day to the Consul at New York disapproving the proceedings of a Mr. Angus McDonald, "because I (he) thought those proceedings would or might be taken to constitute a violation of the Act of Eighteen—the Neutrality Law of the United States. What were the proceedings of Mr. McDonald, which Mr. Crampton thought might constitute a violation of The simple issuing of a handbill, specifying the terms on which recruits would be eceived at Halifax into the Queen's service aned, and the agents. Mr. McDonald, which he then conden nake that iaw but little better than a dead letter. I could not but suppose he viewed it in the same light as Lord Clarendon did when he wrote his dispatch to Mr. Crampton on the 12th of April thereafter, in which his Lordship declared it to be "not I was not mistaken in this respect, I quote a passage from a letter of Mr. Crampton, dated the 14th of March, to Sir G. Le Marchant: "Auy advances to the control of the co of March, to Sir G. It was, indeed, apprehended by me at the time that violatious of that is w would ensue. It could not fail to be seen that any organized scheme of a notes and one $100 note on the New Orleans foreign government to draw recruits from the United States, though by mere invitation, would necessarily tend and result in the violatious of the in the following manner: His room was entered arly March oessarily tend and result in the violatious of the unnicipal law. So decided was my belief in this trepect that measures had already been taken being aged in epoch the interview with Crampton to institute procedulous against persons engaged in this business in New York and Philadelphis. It he notified Mr. Crampton of that fact, as he expressly admits in his report of that fact, as he expressly admits in his report of that interview and to his Government. An attempt is made to deduce an excuse for Mr. Crampton's course in the business of recruiting in this country from the allowing menner. His room was entered through the transom, and he was put under the through the transom, and he was put under the influence of cloroform. The thief then took the minuence that purpose, and that I did not disapprove of them otherwise than by insisting upon the observance of the neutrality law of the United States. This allegation is hardly consistent with Mr. Crampton's own statement of what theu passed. In the defense of his conduct, recently sent by him to his Government, he makes admissions inconsistent with the allegations that there was no concealment on his part, and that the recruiting arrangements were communicated to me. He a subordinate official character, they are not less responsible than Mr. Crampton. The continuous violation of law proceeded within their respective consulates mouth after month, under their eyes, not only without any apparent effort on their part to stop it, but with more or less of their active part, to inpation therein. The Consulate at New York appears to have been the point at which the larning gest expenditures were made, and it is proved by the decuments herewith transmitted that payments at that Consular office to some of the recruiting respectively called upon to make full expenditures where the Consul, in the Consul's presence, from time to breaking out of the war between Great Britain and France on the one hand, and Russia on the other.

That Mr. Crampton did enter most deeply into this scheme is proved by ovidence already submit-ted to her Majesty's Government, but is still more conclusively established by the additional proofs which accompany this dispatch. Whatever de-traction from the value of the testimony against Mr. Crampton may result from the attempt to dis-credit Strobel and Hartz, is much more than made credit Strobei and Hertz, is much more than made oredit Strobel and Hertz, is much more than made up by the additional proofs now adduced. This body of strong cumulative evidence confirms the President's former conclusion as to the complicity of Mr. Crampton and the British Consuls at New York, Philadelphia, and Cincinnati, in the illegal enterprise of recruiting soldiers for the British army within the United States, and the President does not doubt that when this new evidence shall be brought under the consideration of her Majes-ty's Government it will not longer dissent from this conclusion. The gratification which the Presjections against her Majesty's Minister courtesy toward her Majesty's Government, the President could have suspended his determination in the case in order to submit the new testimony which he is confident would have been found sufficient to induce compliance with his request for the recall of the British Minister, he is preciuded from any such thought of delay by able character of the dispatches of that gentleman, copies of which, having been recently laid before Parlament, have thus come to the knowledge of this Government, and which are of a tenor to render further intercourse between the Governments through that Minister alike unpleasant and detri-mental to their good understanding. The President has, therefore, been constrained by considera-tions of the best interests of both countries, reuctantly to have recourse to the only remaining means of removing, without delay, these very uu-acceptable officers from the connection they now have with this Government. This course has been deemed necessary on account of their unfitness for the positions they hold, arising from the very active part they have taken in getting up and carrying out a system of recruiting which has been attended with numerous infractions of our laws, which has disturbed out internal tranquility, and endangered our peaceful relations to a nation with which this Government is most anxious to maintain cordial friendship and intimate commercial and social intercourse. He has therefore determined to send to Mr. Crampton, her Majesty's Diplomatic Representative, his passport, and to revoke the exequature of Mr. Matthews, Mr. Barlay, and Mr. Rowecroft, British Consuls at Philaolphia, New York, and Cincinnati.

LIBERALITY OF PHYSICIANS.—It has always been said that physicians would disparage any remedy, however valuable, which they did not originate themselves. This has been disproven by their liberal course towards Dr. J. C. AYER's proparations. They have adopted them into general use in their practice, which shows a willingness to countenance articles that have intrinsic merits which deserve their attention. This does the icarned profession great credit, and effectually contradicts the prevalent erroneous notion that their epposition to proprietary remedies is based in their interest to discard them. We have always had confidence in the honorable motives of our medical men, and are glad to find it sustained by the liberal welcome they accord to such remedies at Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and Cathartic Pills. MESSRS. O. R. BAKER & CO.

DEAR Sires: I have always had objections to have my name in any way attached to a Patent Medicine; but when I think (as I now have every reason to believe) it has saved my life, I am induced by a sensof duty to those afflicted, as I have been, to make my case known, and recommend your Balsam as a medicine that can be relied on. About a year since I was attacked with Lung Fever, which left my lungs much diseased; my cough was distressing, attended with pain in my left side. I had seen Wister's Balsam ay Med Cherry puffied up in the papers, and I concluded to try it. I used bottle after bottle, which, in taste and is its operation, resembled parecoric—soothing tempoof the limbs, &c., showing confirmed Consumption? The remedies I obtained from my physician also isalled giving me permanent relief or benefit—my longs now ulcersted, and I raised large quantutes of matter from them. The Doctor role my fairneds that I must ply. My prother then got a bottle of DE. HALL'S B 4183AM if the list LUNGS, and I commenced taking it. At first it sickened me, but after taking more, I found it went to the sport to the very scat of my disease. I began to raise with more case, and could feel daily that my langs were healing, until, by the use of four house, I was restored to better health than I had enjoy ed for years. I believe that if I had used Dr. Hall's Balanu when I was first attacked, it would have saved me a wast deal of suffering. All I can say to others in the case is on your lungs.

Yours, respectfully, J. C. WILLARD, Three doors above Fifth street, on Vinc.

Thirty-one Secretaries were appointed.
The announcement of the President's name was received with great appiance.
The committee also recommended the adoption of the rules of the last National convention for the government of this convention.

On motion of Mr. Rochill, of Indiana, the report was unanimously adopted, and John L. Dawson conducted the president to the chair, and the summons to preside over the deliberations of the convention was as unexpected as the honor was nudeserved. The distinguished gentleman who yesterments the convention was as unexpected as the honor was nudeserved. deserved. The distingnished gentleman who yesterday presided, is the connecting link between the past and the present; he had carried them back to a period when the Democratic party was accustomed to go forth to do battle with the great; noble and gallant whig party. That party, with the issues that divided us, has passed away. The great leaders of that party have one by one stolen away to their silent resting-place, filled with years and honers mourand by notition; friends and

On the other side is a faction only more dan-On the other side is a faction only more dangerous because more numerous than the first—a faction with liberty on their tongues, but with treason festering at their hearts, who profess love for the Union only that they may bury in the ruins of the Union the glorious memories of the past and the hopes of the fintne. This faction is formidable only in case of the success of its attempt to nnite against the Democratic party with the first. The National Democratic party have met to-day to appoint standard-bearers to carry on the war against these factions. Let us then come together like a band of brothers to lay on the altar of patriotism and of the Union a willing sacrifice of personal preferences, sectional feeling, and, above all, I and of the United a willing, sectional feeling, and, above all, private dissension.
